U.S. DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

This is requested by the Unclaimed Department as a formal medium to notify and assure you of your winnings of Eight Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollars ($8,500,000.00), that you have won through the Unclaimed Department. Therefore the total sum is to be delivered in the form of a cashier's check issued by the United States Treasury. We have validated, approved, and certified all your legal documents to have your package delivered to you by the Better Business Bureau; we adhered to you to give them your full cooperation to have a smooth delivery of your prize winnings.

In documents viewed by us the US Senate passed clearances that base on a large number of fraud, as of January 1st 2023 all lotteries and sweepstakes must go through the United States Treasury and the IRS. In an agreement of the Unclaimed Department, your winnings must be claimed and all payments made within a period of 90 business days. If claims are not made within the stipulated time period the sums will attract interest rates of 5% that should be paid on time as given by your agent thereof. As the matter at hand a total payment of ($425,000.00) Four Hundred Twenty-Five Thousand, is to be paid for the delivery and custom storage tariffs, which can be made in partial payments, plus an additional $200 for a compressive coverage on the insurance for your winnings. This is a written agreement by the board of directors, I.R.S (Internal Revenue Service), F.T.C. (Federal Trade Commission), B.B.B. (Better Business Bureau), and the D.O.T.T. (Department of Treasury).

Treasury Seal

The new seal reflecting "Bureau of the Fiscal Service" has replaced the old one. The old seal, reflecting "Financial Management Service" will be seen in rotation until this check stock runs out.

U.S. TREASURY CHECK SECURITY FEATURES

Bleeding Ink

The Treasury seal, located to the right of the Statue of Liberty contains security ink that will run and turn red when moisture is applied to the black ink of the seal.

Microprinting

Microprinted words are printed so small that they appear as a line to the naked eye. However, when magnified, they become visible. Microprinting cannot be duplicated by a copier and when a check is counterfeited, they will often show up as a solid line or a series of dots. The U.S. Treasury check has three areas where microprinting is used.

USAUSAUSAUSA

Ultraviolet Overprinting

A protective ultraviolet pattern, invisible to the naked eye, consisting of four lines of "FMS" bracketed by the FMS Seal on the left and the United States Seal (eagle) on the right. This pattern can usually be found under the payee information and amount area. The FMS pattern and seals can be detected under a black light. If the amount box is shaved or altered in any way, a space will be created in the ultraviolet area. When exposed to black light, the ink used in the pattern and the seal will glow. This fluorescent quality cannot be photocopied.

As of October 2013, a new ultraviolet pattern was introduced into the check stock consisting of four lines of "FISCALSERVICE" (see below). Also, the seal has been changed to read "Bureau of the Fiscal Service". Either one of these ultraviolet patterns may be seen until the prior check stock runs out.

Watermark

All U.S. Treasury checks are printed on watermarked paper. The watermark reads "U.S. TREASURY" and can be seen from both the front and back of the check when held up to a light. The watermark is light and cannot be reproduced by a copier. All U.S. Treasury checks have the watermark and any check not having the watermark should be suspected as
